Unprovoked: Robbie Kingsford's injuries after being attacked in Brighton Road

FAIRIES ATTACK

Homophobic abuse and alleged assault by men wearing pink tutus on Halloween

REPORTER
JON SHARMAN

jon.sharman@london.newsquest.co.uk

A father has appealed for help after his son was assaulted by men dressed in pink fairy costumes in Surbiton on Halloween.

Brian Kingsford said his son Robbie was one of two victims of the attack, when two men assaulted him near KFC in Brighton Road.

He had been subjected to homophobic abuse by one of the men outside the YMCA moments earlier, police believe.

In the wake of the attack, Mr Kingsford has set up a Facebook group called Red Alert designed to help share information about similar incidents.

He posted a picture of his son's face after the attack, showing the extent of his injuries.

Mr Kingsford wrote: "My son had this happen to him in Surbiton High Street [sic] last night the two people that done this were dressed as pink fairies and the police are now looking for them.

"These thugs need to be caught if you know who these two people were and have any conscience please report them to the police."

Police said two men, aged 21 and 18, were left with head and facial injuries after the attack, which happened shortly after 1am on Saturday, November 1.

Trainee Detective Constable Ann-Marie Hodgkiss said: "This was a violent and unprovoked hate crime and I am appealing for anyone with any information about the incident to contact me."

"The two suspects were distinctively dressed, probably due to Halloween, and I would urge anyone who recognises their description and who may know who they are to contact me and help us trace them."

Police believe that when the victims walked down Victoria Road and passed a group of two men and three women outside the YMCA, one of the men shouted homophobic abuse.

The pair continued towards the zebra crossing in Brighton Road, but were set upon.

Passersby jumped in to stop the assault and the attackers ran away along Victoria Road.

Kingston police said enquiries into the attack were ongoing and no arrests had been made.

The first suspect had fair, shaven hair and a short, muscular build. The second had short brown hair.

Anyone with information should call the community safety unit at Kingston police station on 020 8721 5858, call 101, or call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

A 26-year-old man has been arrested on suspicion of common assault and inflicting grievous bodily harm.

He was arrested and taken to a west London police station on Tuesday.

The Metropolitan Police said they are still looking for a second man.

Winter wonderland heralds Christmas

REPORTER

JON SHARMAN

jon.sharman@london.newsquest.co.uk

You might have seen mince pies and chocolate Santas in the shops, but Kingston's Christmas festivities do not truly get started until next week.

The town's Christmas lights went up this week and will be switched on next Thursday, as Kingston is transformed into a wintry Narnia.

Step inside the world of the Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe as stilt walkers, acrobats and a giant snow globe take over the town centre.

There will be an interactive music show, and a street magician and balloon artist will also tell themed stories and create the Narnia characters from balloons.

Ros Morgan, CEO of

Ice to see you: Drummers drumming

Kingstonfirst, said: "Residents and visitors to the town will be wowed by some truly magical performances."

This year's theme is inspired by the Rose Theatre's highly-anticipated Christmas production of the CS Lewis favourite, which will run from November 30 to January 4.

Santa: In the grotto

The ancient marketplace will host a Christmas Eve, and on the day of the switch-on will host acrobats performing in a giant snow globe.

Head along to Clarence Street, Memorial Gardens and Market Place from 3pm on Thursday, November 13, to take part. The lights will be switched on at 6pm.

Old London Road will host its own lights switch-on including former Strictly Come Dancing star Izabela Rai, stilt walkers dressed as Christmas trees, and a treasure hunt.

Santa's grotto, baby reindeer and live music will also make an appearance.

The street will be closed to traffic until 7pm on Thursday, November 13, with activities kicking-off at 12.30pm.

Osbourne released from jail

Shamed former Kingston Council leader Derek Osbourne has been released from prison – almost a year to the day after he was jailed for downloading and distributing indecent images of children.

The ex-Liberal Democrat leader was released on licence on Tuesday, October 28 – one day short of a full year.

The former Beverley ward councillor was sentenced to two years in prison on October 29, 2013, after pleading guilty to 17 counts of making and distributing indecent images.

They included extreme images of children, animals and violence against women, which he posted under the online pseudonym Dave Strider.

The 60-year-old had served the borough for 27 years, before his arrest in June last year.

In the past 12 months, he is believed to have spent time in Wandsworth and Brixton prisons.

A number of senior Liberal Democrat ex-colleagues told the Surrey Comet they had not heard from Osbourne since his release.

The new Conservative administration has budgeted £10,000 to be spent on an independent report investigating the activities of the disgraced former council leader during his time in the post, although a police investigation found no evidence of illegal activities during his council work.

Council leader vows to stop flats development after Planning Inspectorate ruling Primary school hopes stalled

CHIEF REPORTER

NAZIA DEWJI

ndewji@
london.newsquest.co.uk

Hopes of building a new primary school in north Kingston have been hit after the Planning Inspectorate ruled in favour of a student housing developer.

Kingston Council had been fighting to turn land at the Kingsgate Business Centre in Kingsgate Road, Kingston, into a primary school as part of its north Kingston development brief.

But a decision from the inspectorate ruled in favour of land acquisition company Goldcrest to demolish the disused building, to make way for 210 student flats.

An inquiry was held in September after the council, then controlled by the Liberal Democrats, stalled on a possible land swap deal with Goldcrest, which would have seen the company swap the business centre for the adjacent Canbury Place car park, which is owned by the authority.

Planning inspector Jennifer Vyse said: "I am not persuaded that the granting of planning permission would, necessarily, thwart development of a primary school in the locality and it would not materially prejudice the outcome of the plan-making process in this respect."

But Kingston Council leader Kevin Davis warned Goldcrest the authority would continue working to stop the student flats development.

He said: "We have been clear with the owners of that site that the council will stop them building."

"Student flats are not part of the planning policy for that area and we will be working to make sure we don't get them built.

"We don't want companies such as Goldcrest that are not here for the long term. They are not the type that are welcome here."

"We want people that we can work with. They have proven they are not capable of that."

Robin Meltzer, prospective Lib Dem parliamentary candidate for north Kingston, said: "The new Conservative administration's policy of masterful inactivity has been exposed by this judgement.

"The Liberal Democrats, under former education lead member David Ryder-Mills, left plans in place for a primary school on the wider site."

"They were published, consulted upon, and work was even done to persuade Berkeley Homes not to put in a planning application to build over 800 student flats, which would have destroyed the plan."

Councillor Liz Green,

Liberal Democrat leader, said: "I have to put the blame firmly at the door of the Conservatives."

"They even called a 'behind the scenes crisis meeting' with Goldcrest's management, but were unable to persuade them not to go to appeal."

"They have wasted another nine months. Parents want a school on this site in north Kingston and I hope it's not too late to do a land swap to provide a new school."

Services to mark war dead

Four Remembrance Sunday services will take place across Kingston to commemorate the First World War centenary this month, writes Molly O'Shea.

Kingston, New Malden, Surbiton and Chessington will all remember the fallen on Sunday, November 9.

A procession from Guildhall at 10.37am will open Kingston's service, leading to the war memorial by 10.45am for the laying of wreaths and a short service.

This will be followed by a march past Guildhall at noon.

New Malden's service at the war memorial will run from 9.45am to 10.15am.

The service at Surbiton will take place at the war memorial in Ewell Road, from 10.45am to 11.30am, with the parade starting at the Surbiton British Legion.

Chessington's service will take place at the war memorial at the Royal British Legion HQ, Church Lane, at 10.45am, followed by a service at 11.15am at the parish church of St Mary the Virgin, Church Lane.

Have a say on another Eden

Residents can tell Kingston Council what they think of a new vision for the area around Eden Street.

Proposed redevelopment of Eden Quarter was outlined last month and could see less traffic, a new public square and 1,200 new homes.

A six-week consultation on the 102-page draft development guide has been opened, and will include three drop-in sessions at the Everyday Church in Union Street.

Responses will be taken into account for future negotiations with developers over what the town centre will look like in years to come.

To view the draft documents, visit kingston-consult.objective.co.uk or pick up a copy in your nearest library before Monday, December 15.

For more information, or to give your view, email dpr@kingston.gov.uk or call 020 8547 5002.

Drop-in sessions at the church will take place on Thursday, November 13 from 3pm to 8pm; on Friday, December 5 from 10am to 4pm; and on Saturday, December 6 from 10am to 4pm.

New crossing point for greenway?

Yet more roadworks are looming for Tolworth's greenway, and could include a new £110,000 crossing point.

After Kingston Council asked residents what changes they would like to see to the £3.1m scheme, officers have drawn up a new report outlining 11 potential alterations.

The most significant is a new, signalled pedestrian crossing, which under a "worst-case" scenario could cost up to £110,000.

Maltreated Italian cypress trees, which died earlier this year, are to be replaced at the expense of contractor North Midland Construction.

But Surbiton Councillor Malcolm Self said: "If we plant another load of Italian cypresses in a year's time and they all die again, we're going to look pretty stupid."

"They [Transport for London] say we can't have a deciduous tree because it drops leaves. They don't want to have to face the challenge of clearing leaves."

Changes to parking spaces in the Broadway are also among the plans, which will be sent to residents for another round of consultations.

Proposed alterations were due to come before councillors at a meeting yesterday, Wednesday, November 5, at Dysart School from 7.30pm.

Move is ruined after personal data breach

REPORTER

JON SHARMAN

jon.sharman@london.newsquest.co.uk

A Chessington family's house move was scuppered when a housing company breached data protection laws by sharing information about them with a third party.

Paragon Community Housing was judged by a Government watchdog to have breached the Data Protection Act by telling a prospective house swapper of antisocial noise complaints against Edd Denim's family.

Mr Denim, 29, and partner Vanessa Frias, 26, had been hoping to move to a larger home with their three daughters – Alyssa, six, Ellie, four, and Faith, one.

The children playing in a communal space had been the subject of complaints by a neighbour – later dismissed by police and Paragon.

Mr Denim said that after the prospective swapper was contacted by Paragon and backed out of the deal, "we tried to explain it to her, but she didn't want to know".

Mr Denim, of Leatherhead Road, said: "They have made us look bad, and they have stopped us from potentially going for a move and getting a fresh start."

"I feel it was unfair of them to do that and bad practice on their part."

Paragon offered the family £100 compensation.

In a letter to Mr Denim, the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO) said: "From the information provided to us it appears that Paragon has breached the [Act] as it has acknowledged that they did not act correctly in disclosing this information."

"It appears that Paragon has already taken reasonable steps to address this matter and to prevent it from happening again."

"We will keep the concerns raised on file."

"This will help us over time to build up a picture of Paragon's information rights practices."

Hoping to move: Edd Denim's family was offered £100 compensation by Paragon

Kingston and Surbiton MP Edward Davey, who mediated discussion between Paragon and Mr Denim, said the situation was "deeply regrettable".

He said: "I think public bodies, and even private companies, need to be very careful about how they use personal data."

"In this case there appears to have been genuine harm done to Mr Denim's chances of a house move."

A Paragon spokeswoman said: "Paragon takes complaints regarding antisocial behaviour incredibly seriously. We have offered Mr Edd Denim monetary compensation."

"In light of this claim we have enhanced our training around the mutual exchange policy and procedure and also enhanced our data protection training, so that all staff can be confident when dealing with such issues."

Paragon is behind plans to build 13 flats on the site of the old Bridge Road car wash in Chessington, which was closed last year.

The company manages 9,000 homes in 10 boroughs across the south-east, including in Elmbridge and Richmond.

In its most recent annual report it said it received a total of 308 complaints – down 22 per cent from a year earlier – and that 37 per cent of people were satisfied with how their complaints were handled.

It also received 161 complaints, and said 68 per cent of complaints were resolved within 10 working days.

Centre users fear boot

CHIEF REPORTER
NAZIA DEWJI

ndewji@
london.newsquest.co.uk

Kingston Council has announced a review of services at a care home and community centre in Kingston – sparking fears elderly residents and regulars may be booted out.

Murray House, in Acre Road, is currently home to 38 people, some with dementia, and some who were moved there last year when the council closed Newent House in Surbiton.

It has also been the base of the Milaap Centre, a multicultural club for older people from ethnic backgrounds, for the past 10 years.

Kingston Chinese Association and the Iraqi Women's Association also meet at Murray House.

But now Kingston Council has admitted it is expected to review future options for the site – although there are currently no plans to move anyone out.

But Prabha Shetty, who helps manage the Milaap Centre, said: "I would love to know what they want to do with Murray House. We are not going without a fight."

"If we have to move again that will be incredibly difficult for us. Our funding goes to March next year, after that we will have to look for something."

The Milaap Centre receives £1,000 from the council yearly, the rest is made from fundraising.

Mrs Shetty said Milaap members had further been dismayed when they were told their service may also have to be commissioned in the future – with a number of service providers able to put bids in.

She said: "How would anybody else know about our elderly? We have struggled for 25 years because we think we have a worthwhile service."

"This is the only such community centre in our borough or surrounding areas and they are saying 'Let's go and commission it all'. It's disappointing."

John Azah, Kingston Race and Equalities Council director, said: "What we have said is 'If you are going to make a decision then we want to be part of that consultation process'. We need to be part of that decision."

Councillor Ian George, lead for housing, said: "It is a site that is run down – it does need assessment. We are looking at the future of care in Kingston in the coming years so we can plan ahead for future needs. But there has not been any decision made."

"Whether we spend a lot of money on it or change what goes in that's something to think about."

A Kingston Council spokeswoman said any review of Murray House will factor in individuals and organisations using the facility.

25-year-old badly hurt after nightclub punch Jaw fractured in 'nasty attack'

CHIEF REPORTER

ndewji@london.newsquest.co.uk

Kingston police are appealing for help to find a man they would like to speak to after a clubber was left with his jaw broken in three places.

The 25-year-old man was punched at McClusky's in Kingston at 2am on Friday, September 12.

He did not realise how badly he was injured until the following day, when he found he needed surgery.

Detective Constable Becca Hubbard, from Kingston CID, said: "The victim arrived at the nightclub just after midnight. At 2am, he was punched in the face. Despite extensive enquiries we have not been able to identify the suspect. We are looking to anyone who may have been in the club on the Thursday night to help us identify him."

"This was a very nasty attack and the force of the punch broke the victim's jaw in three places."

The man police would like to speak to in connection with the attack is white, in his early to mid-20s, about 5ft 10in and of a slim build, with short dark hair. He was wearing a white top on the night.

Anyone with information should call Kingston CID on 020 8721 5897 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

As a charity, we do not receive any direct government funding and rely on the generosity of our supporters to fund the high level care that we provide.

At this time of Remembrance, please consider leaving a gift in your Will to The Royal Star & Garter Homes. It will ensure that we can continue to support the nation's military family for generations to come.

Daughter's distress at ban from meeting discussing former care home resident 'I want truth about dad's death'

REPORTER

ELLIE CAMBRIDGE

ellie.cambridge@
london.newsquest.co.uk

A daughter fears she is being kept from the truth, after she was blocked from a case conference into her father's death.

Helen Crewdson, 41, had been due to attend a meeting to discuss the death of her father Robert Cowan, but it was disbanded and she was told another meeting would take place without her.

More than two weeks after the first meeting was due to take place, Mrs Crewdson received an email from Surrey County Council, on October 24, telling her the professional-only closed case conference would take place.

Mrs Crewdson, who runs weight loss clinic Hypoxi Therapy Centre in Surbiton, said: "It was evident when we came for the last case conference, which didn't take place, that there was some sort of avoidance of accountability and responsibility going on."

"I hold them, Surrey County Council and Anchor, totally responsible for my dad's fast demise. Banning us from the case conference that is supposed to be for us to vent, is awful."

Robert Cowan was 72 when he died at Kingston Hospital from pneumonia. He had dementia and leukaemia and had been at Linwood care home, Thames Ditton, which is run by Anchor.

Mrs Crewdson filed a complaint against the care home before Mr Cowan died, claiming he had lost weight and had been neglected.

Her father died on July 9 and less than a week later Mrs Crewdson got an email from a Surrey County Council officer recommending the safeguarding and complaint process be closed.

She refused to close the case and a meeting was arranged for Tuesday, October 7, following an investigation.

At that meeting, objections were raised by Anchor and the council to the Kingston Guardian's reporter being present. Our reporter left, but both parties refused to continue without legal representation.

Both the council and Anchor Trust said professionals always met first to discuss serious matters such as this and would meet Mrs Crewdson at a later date.

A joint statement from Surrey County Council and Linwood care home, said: "There has never been any plan to exclude the family from these discussions. As with any serious matter like this, professionals will firstly meet to assess the matter and discuss how to assist the family to resolve this.

"Mrs Crewdson was informed about this meeting as a courtesy to reassure her that action was being taken.

"The plan is to hold a private meeting at a later date between Mrs Crewdson, representatives from Linwood and the county council to address what needs to be done going forward."

Roberta Celoni, 37, of Chaffinch Close, Surbiton, stole cosmetics worth £88.90 from the Tolworth Broadway shop last month. She was fined £100, and ordered to pay a £20 surcharge plus £85 costs, at Wimbledon Magistrates' Court on Saturday, October 18.

THICK AS THIEVES: Couple back behind bars after admitting threatening behaviour

Pair jailed over threats to kill

HARDEEP MATHARU

hmatharu@
london.newsquest.co.uk

A pair of convicted thieves are back behind bars after admitting threatening to kill a woman.

Adrian Robertson, 40, and Rebecca Mills, 32, had already served time earlier this year after snatching a pensioner's handbag from a church in Tolworth.

This week, the couple were jailed again for threatening to kill Jackie Rossiter, who lived below Mills' mother in Edinburgh Court, Raynes Park.

Robertson had already admitted at a previous hearing to making threats to kill and damaging Ms Rossiter's door, in June last year.

His partner Mills, of Lincoln Walk, Epsom, also admitted the charges in a previous court hearing, as well as a charge of racial provocation to violence.

At Guildford Crown Court on October 24, Robertson, who used to live in Mole Court, Ewell, and now lives in Guildford, was sentenced to 18 months in prison, while Mills was handed 12 months.

Mills' mother had been evicted due to a history of problems with Ms Rossiter.

An earlier hearing at Kingston Crown Court heard how, at 10pm on June 23, Ms Rossiter heard loud banging and music, opened her door and saw Mills and Robertson.

She asked the pair to keep the noise down and they then started banging on her door and made the threats to kill her.

Robertson told the victim: "I have been in prison for 22 years. I'm going to kill you, and if I don't kill you I'm going to kill your children."

"I will put your kids in a white van and kill your mum."

Mills then shouted violent racial abuse and said: "You got my mum kicked out. I'm going to have you."

The couple left when the police were called and were later arrested.

Mills and Robertson were previously jailed for stealing an 81-year-old's handbag while she took communion in Our Lady Immaculate church, in Ewell Road, Tolworth.

For this offence, Robertson was sentenced to five months in jail and Mills was handed eight weeks behind bars.

In 2009, Robertson was jailed for two-and-a-half years for robbing a partially-sighted musician in Epsom.

GOING WEST: Two Surbiton dancers have nabbed a spot on a touring theatre show due to hit the West End. Cousins Charlie Ward and Thomas Grey, both six, have been performing in The Small Hand – a show based on a book by The Woman in Black author Susan Hill. The boys will be on the road for five weeks before the show goes to the West End.

STATION LIFT: Network Rail has applied to refurbish three lifts at Surbiton station. The plans were approved by Kingston Council officers last month. Train bosses were forced to apologise in September after disabled passengers were left stranded by broken-down lifts during the Surbiton festival.

KARATE KIDS: A former karate world champion who vanquished opponents half his age has guided two students to medal glory. Sellathurai Ganeshalingam, 64, saw students Aarthi Karunakaran, 14, and brother Agilan, seven, win gold and silver medals respectively at the World Karate Championship in Poland this month. The Sri Lankan sensei, from New Malden, won gold himself in 2011.

DRIVING OFF: A man has been fined for driving away without paying for petrol twice in five days. David Daniel, 26, of Nigel Fisher Way, Chessington, was ordered to pay the Malden Rushett BP garage £112.25 for the fuel. He was also fined £100, and ordered to pay a £20 surcharge, at Wimbledon Magistrates' Court on Tuesday, October 21.

HOWARD JONES: 'A principled man who will be missed'

Warm tributes paid to former Tory leader

REPORTERS

NAZIA DEWJI
JON SHARMAN

ndewji@london.newsquest.co.uk

Tributes have been paid to Howard Jones, the first Conservative leader to win control of Kingston Council in 20 years, who died last week.

The St James ward councillor, who had lived in the borough for more than 40 years, died on the morning of Wednesday, October 29, aged 71.

He had been battling cancer for the past year.

Kingston Council leader Kevin Davis, who replaced Councillor Jones as Tory leader after May's historic local election victory, said: "Howard was a dear friend and a confidant."

"The Conservative victory in May is as much down to Howard as it is to anyone else and it is sad for us that he has not been able to take a central role in creating a new Kingston. I will miss him sorely for his laugh, his strength and his companionship."

"I am very proud to have been able to call Howard my friend."

Fellow Conservative Councillor

Missed: Howard Jones

Deadlinepix KT60337

David Cunningham said: "He will be sorely missed."

"He was genuine and he cared about this borough."

Coun Jones, a former Scotland Yard detective, was first elected in 2002, and became leader of the Conservative group in 2005.

In the last election, he topped the poll in his ward for the third time, gathering 1,250 votes.

Due to his illness, he did not attend May's local election count, where his party won outright control of Kingston Council for the first time in 20 years.

But he made a surprise early-morning appearance at the King's Centre in Chessington, to the delight of his fellow council colleagues.

He told the Kingston Guardian that day: "We are so pleased to win for the people of Kingston, for the future of Kingston and young people's aspirations."

Conservative MP Zac Goldsmith described Coun Jones on his official Twitter account as "a principled man who will be very greatly missed."

James Berry, prospective Conservative parliamentary candidate for Kingston and Surbiton, said: "Howard Jones was a great man."

"His crowning achievement was leading the Conservatives to victory in Kingston in May."

"It is terribly sad that he will not be able to see all of his hard-fought plans come to fruition. I will miss Howard very much."

Liberal Democrat leader Councillor Liz Green said: "Howard was a really nice bloke. We had political differences, but we never had any difficulty talking through things."

Coun Jones is survived by his wife Judith and his four children.

Pair wielded meat cleaver and tied up former work colleagues

Burka-clad robbers jailed for store raid

NEWS EDITOR

ROSS LOGAN

ross.logan@
london.newsquest.co.uk

Two burka-clad robbers threatened former phone shop colleagues with a meat cleaver before tying them up and leaving with £40,000 worth of gadgets and cash.

Mohammed Sabek, 27, and Aneel Khan, 28, robbed the Phones 4U store in Putney High Street – where they had both previously worked – wearing the religious garments to conceal their identities.

They approached a sales assistant who was serving a customer, threatened him with a meat cleaver and instructed him to close the front door.

They forced the assistant, the customer and the store manager into a basement and tied them up before loading more than £40,000 worth of phones, tablets, accessories and cash into suitcases and taking a taxi to Hounslow.

But they were caught when officers spotted them on CCTV inside a coffee shop without their disguises following an aborted robbery two days before.

On Friday, October 24, Sabek, of Grovesnor Road, Chiswick and Khan, from Gloucester Road, Kingston, were both jailed for five years for conspiracy to rob at Kingston Crown Court.

Detective Constable John Baldwin, from Wandsworth CID, said: "Both Sabek and Khan are now facing a long jail sentence because they thought by wearing clothing to conceal their faces and bodies they could commit crime and not be caught."

"What both of them failed to realise is that the Metropolitan Police will use specialist teams and equipment to catch and prosecute those responsible for such acts."

"I hope that these sentences serve as a reminder to anybody thinking of committing serious crimes that, sooner or later, they will be serving a lengthy custodial sentence."

Both men were former employees of the Phones 4U branch, who had been under investigation by the store for misconduct.

Sabek had resigned two months before the robbery, on October 2, 2012, and Khan a month before.

Police said finding the culprits required "a lengthy and complex investigation".

Drugs a factor in man's death

A man who collapsed at home died a drug-related death, an inquest has concluded.

Aaron Woodward, 37, collapsed and struck his head at home in Chessington, in March last year.

A postmortem examination found that the self-employed electrician, who was engaged with a young child, suffered from severe heart disease.

Damage to his heart was linked to long-term, though not necessarily heavy, cocaine use, Coroner Chinyere Inyama said.

He said: "There are no suspicious circumstances about the death, and no third-party involvement."

Mr Inyama extended his "deepest sympathies and condolences" to Mr Woodward's family and friends at West London Coroner's Court on Tuesday, October 28.

on the proposal for a new tunnel under the Thames at Silvertown

We'd like your opinion on a new tunnel at Silvertown, which is part of a package of proposed river crossings. The new tunnel will:

- Provide a new road crossing across the Thames
- Reduce queuing at the Blackwall Tunnel
- Support the creation of new jobs and homes
- Create the opportunity for new public transport connections

We'd also like your views on a proposed range of charging options for the Blackwall and Silvertown Tunnels. Charging would be implemented from the early 2020s once the Silvertown Tunnel construction is complete to help manage demand and fund the new tunnel.

MAYOR OF LONDON

CROSS PURPOSE: Boris backs high-speed rail route

Crossrail 2 on track

CHIEF REPORTER

NAZIA DEWJI

ndewji@london.newsquest.co.uk

The £20bn Crossrail 2 project is a step closer to coming to Kingston, after the Mayor of London backed a route that could see high-speed trains pass through five of the borough's stations.

Boris Johnson last week announced the preferred route of the proposed high frequency, high capacity service, which would run from Epsom up to Cheshunt in Hertfordshire through central London.

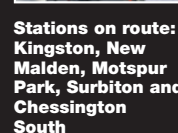

It includes a single journey that would get passengers from Kingston to Tottenham Court Road station in central London in under half an hour.

Other stations included in the scheme are New Malden, Motspur Park, Surbiton and Chessington South.

Mr Johnson said: "Crossrail 2 is a vital project not just for the capital, but also for the regions from which people travel into London on packed trains each day of the week."

"For the capital to remain globally competitive there needs to be continued investment in our transport network and that's why we have to get cracking on planning for Crossrail 2."

"It's an essential infrastructure project that will deliver thousands

Stations on route:
Kingston, New Malden, Motspur Park, Surbiton and Chessington South of new homes and jobs, as well as helping to keep our great city moving."

If approved by the Government, work to build Crossrail 2 could begin by 2017 and be completed by 2030.

A consultation on a single preferred route and station locations is expected in September 2015.

Stephen Knight, London Assembly member for Kingston and Richmond, said: "It is vital that the investment is found to construct Crossrail 2 as it is needed to ensure that London as a whole can continue to grow and prosper."

"In south-west London it will relieve overcrowding and enable a significant improvement to the current transport links."

Liberal Democrat leader Councillor Liz Green said: "I think it is everybody's preferred route, but my worry is the costing."

The scheme caused some controversy in Kingston earlier this year, when Liberal Democrats jumped on a report by business group London First, which said a new suburb should be built on greenbelt land in Chessington to serve Crossrail 2 passengers.

That led to Lib Dems claiming City Hall was working on plans to create 70,000 new homes in Chessington, which was the used in campaign literature ahead of May's local elections.

Mr Johnson and the Conservative Party have always strongly denied the claims.

Councillor David Cunningham, lead for transport, said: "I think it is excellent. It will be good for the town. We have met up with TfL because part of the schemes we are looking at for the improvement of Kingston station will benefit from Crossrail 2."

Petrol station more use than new flats

The Shell garage would be a loss (Block of flats and store on the way? October 24).

I almost always buy my petrol there and without it will have to go to Murco, in Kingston Road, which is small and crowded, or to Shannon Corner, which is not on my route.

The flats and a small Sainsbury's? Positive for the people who will live there, but negative from the point of view of more cars added to the slow crawl though New Malden and needing parking spaces.

Had we known about this earlier, there would have been an outcry in favour of a small supermarket.

DIANE HOWELL
 Via email

- As chairperson of the New Malden (Beverley Ward)

Residents' Association, we understand that there is not much we can do if Shell wishes to sell the site. However, we do object on the following grounds:

1. Parking: I understand the proposal is for 20 one and two-bedroom flats over the ground-floor Sainsbury's retail unit, but with only 10 parking places. The assumption by the council, and no doubt supported with enthusiasm by developers, is that those people near bus routes and train stations will not be interested in owning a car. This is a complete fallacy.

In addition – and it may come as a surprise to planning departments – people have friends who visit. This means there will be more than one car and, again, people share flats in order to be able to afford them, so there could be two cars per flat.

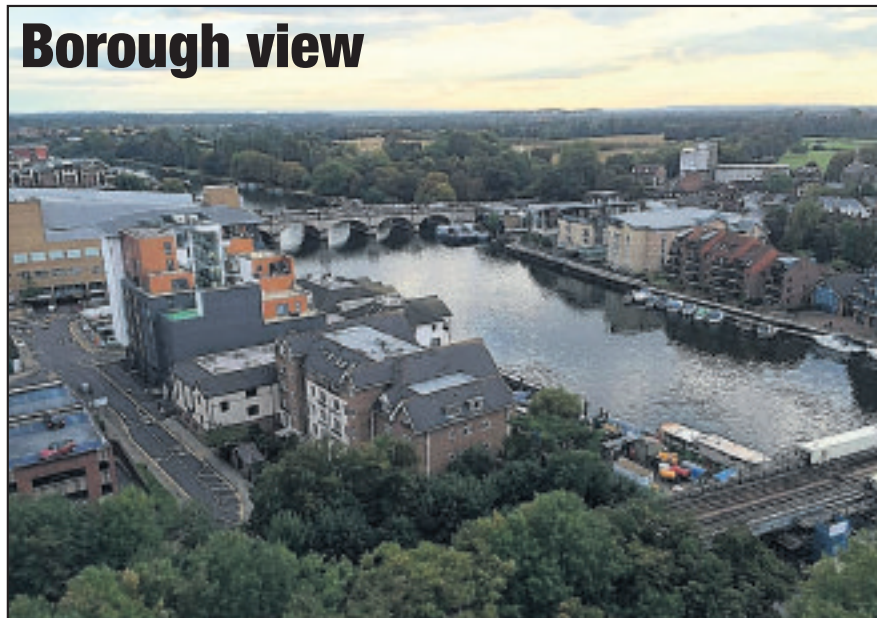

Parking around the area of the Shell garage is almost non-existent and having spoken to people in the Groves area, it is obvious there is going to be huge problems in this respect. Developers do not care what happens once they have built, and it seems the council is only interested in getting as much council tax in as possible.

2. Petrol stations: We have now lost two petrol stations in New Malden given over to flats and it does mean that people in the Groves area will have to drive further to obtain petrol. Great for the environment.

Planning for the long term is a priority.

Cutting number of councillors will mean not enough time to help residents

The Conservative councillors on Elmbridge Council are trying to push through an expensive consultation plan to reduce the number of councillors from 60 to 48, claiming that this is driven by a wish to reduce costs and increase efficiency.

While they are sitting on reserves of £30m, their plan would mean savings of only about 38 pence per head each year.

An increase in councillors' workloads will surely then lead to claims for increased councillor allowances.

Democracy on the cheap is no democracy. In the real world we should consider:

1. How will reducing the number of councillors make us more democratic? Councillors are needed to make our local services more accountable and accessible, to be able to keep in touch with local needs and to represent these needs on the bodies that affect our services. Elmbridge, with its 131,000-plus population, is not – contrary to Conservative claims – over-represented by 60 councillors as we are in the middle tier of Surrey boroughs.

2. It is hard enough already to get good people to stand as councillors with the present workload. Increase this workload and more and more people will simply say they cannot devote enough time to the duties of a councillor – as former Conservative Esher Councillor Mark Jordan found when he said he could only attend half the meetings due to work and family commitments.

3. Being a councillor is not just about turning up at meetings at the civic centre. What residents want is for their councillor to take up their complaints about everything from potholes to getting a bed for an elderly relative in a community hospital, dog dirt, planning problems, flooding – the list goes on and the telephone does not stop ringing.

What would residents think if councillor numbers were axed and when residents rang their councillor he or she had to reply, "Sorry, I can't help, I just haven't the time because so many other people are ringing and emailing me"?

4. Any councillors worth their salt will also be actively involved in the community as volunteers through being a school governor, working with their community hospital, their arts centre or serving on local charities such as the RC Sherriff Trust or Walton Charities.

The workload of councillors has increased with the joint partnership committees with the county council and the need to nominate councillors on many outside bodies such as the Surrey health scrutiny committee and Thames Landscape Strategy.

Who is to represent Elmbridge's interests if the number of councillors is reduced?

What the Elmbridge administration fails to emphasise is that reducing the number of councillors will also involve a major redrawing of ward boundaries, inevitably leading to the disappearance of some wards altogether and to the creation of new wards with artificial boundaries cutting across the present community identities based on our towns and villages.

Is this what residents want?

TWEETS of the WEEK

 I've just seen someone walking on a treadmill, eating a bag of sweets. That's multi-tasking.

@roisinmiller:
 In one weekend play equipment in Kingston defaced with swastikas and an (unrelated) homophobic attack in Surbiton. Makes me sad.

Candidate ran fan club

The Liberal Democrats have chosen their candidate for Richmond and Kingston, and it turns out this weekend that he spent many, many years as a "key organiser" for the Michael Jackson fan club.

He even wrote a letter to the Independent newspaper saying: "It is not Michael Jackson who has let us down and betrayed us. It is the media."

He added: "Michael Jackson's fans feel far from betrayed by him. We simply love and respect him all the more."

I am sure some will say it is merely the folly of youth, but a look on Google shows Robin Meltzer was still doing this in 2006, possibly later.

He was campaigning to be the MP for Kensington only a year or two later.

Whichever way you look at it, it shows very curious, if not bizarre, judgement by the person the Liberal Democrat Party wants the good people of Richmond and north Kingston to vote for in May.

MISERY and mirth

As ROSS LOGAN finds out, Arthur Smith celebrates the life and music of Leonard Cohen in his new show at the Rose Theatre

Is there a better way to spend an evening than to listen to a man discuss depression, dementia and death, all set to the music of notorious "Godfather of Gloom" Leonard Cohen?

As a proud miserabilist, with an extensive collection of Smiths, Joy Division, Nick Cave and Radiohead records, I can't.

Which is why I shall be joining a crowd of fellow grumps – no doubt dressed entirely in black, smoking

Gauloises – for Arthur Smith Sings Leonard

We are the words Trapped in this bubble

Cohen at the Rose Theatre next Sunday.

Not to everyone's taste, perhaps, but for those who appreciate the Canadian octogenarian's musings on isolation, break-ups and despair, this is must see stuff.

Certainly Smith himself holds the view of most Cohen aficionados – that beneath the dark lyrics and sombre arrangements there is a sparkling and uplifting wit.

"What a lot of people don't get is that he's actually very funny," says Smith, speaking from Galway Bay following a show on the west coast of Ireland.

"He's a witty guy."

"There's a song of his I usually sing in the show that he used to introduce by saying: 'I only sing this song when I know the landscape can support the despair I project.'"

"That's funny. What a great line."

Smith's new show is in fact Volume 2 of his Cohen routine – the first "Arthur Smith Sings..." show was 14 years ago.

Smith has had a few hard knocks in the intervening years – he nearly died from necrotic pancreatitis, he developed diabetes, and he watched his mother descend into dementia. No wonder he turned back to the Cohen records.

Smith says: "It's a show about depression, decline, dementia and death."

"It doesn't sound like a barrel of laughs, but it often is."

"When I first started doing it, it was more because I thought it was a funny title: Arthur Smith Sings Leonard Cohen."

"I've always had a bit of an affinity with him."

"It helps that I look a bit like him and I can growl along with him."

"But one of the reasons I still do it is I enjoy singing his songs."

Has the man himself ever been to see the show? For once, Smith is coy.

"I can't say too much, because I don't want to spoil the show," he says. "There has been contact."

"He knows about the show, and he approves of it in the sense that he hasn't stopped me doing it."

Have some more

A cast of more than 100 school children will bring Dickens' classic tale of orphaned street urchin Oliver Twist to life in Kingston this month.

The production is the fourth time that Surbiton High School has performed at the Rose Theatre, following last year's Beauty and the Beast.

The three-night run will feature boys and girls from year 3 to year 13, with all sets and costumes created by the school's art and DT department.

Audiences will be transported back to Victorian England through the eyes of orphan Oliver, who starts off in a miserable Victorian workhouse.

He is sold to a funeral parlour after asking for more gruel, and after escaping, is thrown into life as a pickpocket with the mischievous Artful Dodger.

Sing along to the well-known songs as he encounters infamous characters such as Fagin and Bill Sykes, as well as the tragic Nancy.

All songs will be performed with a live orchestra and original choreography.

A spokeswoman from Surbiton High says: "Surbiton High School is delighted to be producing this family favourite and warmly invite you to Consider Yourself One of Us."

The amateur production is based on the Broadway show by David Merrick and Donald Albery.

LANDSCAPE ARTIST: A painter will be discussing her vivid landscape works at Surbiton's Cornerhouse arts centre this month.

Mariana Willard describes herself as someone who "paints from the heart and from memories of beautiful places I have seen".

An exhibition of her work will run at the Cornerhouse throughout November.

She adds: "My work is an expression of joy and passion, conveyed through colour movement and light. Most of my work is about fields, sunsets, trees and abstract collages and most of them are created from a combination of places I have been to in England, and other countries around the world."

Thought your childhood days of painting a wonky self-made pot and proudly giving it to your mum for her birthday were over?

Get the apron back on and head back to the studio and try your hand at pottery classes, writes Rebecca Pemberton.

You do not have to be enrolled on an elite advanced art class to enjoy the clay-based delights, and more studios are offering adult courses, as well as workshops for kids.

Why not break the mould of the traditional hen party by doing a class with the girls?

Crack open the wine while creating a lasting treasure, or piece to laugh at, for the bride and groom.

Alternatively fulfil your fantasy of re-enacting the Demi Moore and Patrick Swayze pottery scene in Ghost by creating art in a steamy kiln evening class after work. Even celebrities such as Twilight star Ashley Greene have taken up pottery as a hobby.

London-based Pottery cafe have three different studios in Battersea, Fulham and Richmond.

Rachel, of the Richmond studio, says: "The pottery is the perfect durable gift to give someone as a memento.

"Very popular are our baby sessions, where you can print your baby's foot on our pottery."

With Christmas coming up, pottery classes, either painting or clay moulding, could be the perfect way to get some presents ticked off the list, while having a fun time doing so.

NEVER SAY DIE

A comedy on life in a retirement home for former thespians is coming to Kingston College this month, writes Becky Pemberton.

The Upstage Theatre Company's Old Actors Never Die is an eccentric piece of "luvvie" fun and will be playing at the Arthur Cotterell Theatre.

The play, written by Lynn Britney, is set at Mount Home, which is more like a country house hotel than a home for the retired, and is run in a very informal manner by Mr and Mrs Thompson. When character Walter Neville arrives, he is delighted to find some of his oldest friends living there.

The lothario Edmund, who is the ex-husband of three of the residents, goes missing, prompting the women to help save him.

• The Upstage Theatre Company presents Old Actors Never Die; Arthur Cotterell Theatre, Kingston College; November 12-14, 7.45pm; £9 and £7; call 020 8390 9113 for tickets.

Not such a fiery month November sees drop in household claims

The fifth of November is traditionally a night of fun and mischief. But despite the fiery and explosive nature of Bonfire Night, AA Insurance data reveals that November is actually one of the least likely months of the year to have a household fire.

In 2013, just five per cent of home fire claims were reported in November. That's compared to a high of 15 per cent in July. Janet Connor, managing director of AA Insurance said: "Out of every day of the year, we'd probably think Bonfire Night is the most likely day that fireworks are used carelessly or small bonfires get out of hand."

"But our data shows that's not usually the case. We actually see more claims for fire damage during the summer. We assume that's down to misuse of barbecues: good weather and a few beers seem to be more conducive to a fiery mishap than sparklers on a soggy November evening.

"I also believe that most people prefer to go to an organised display that will be much better value for money, likely to be in aid of local charities and certainly more spectacular than any home-organised firework party."

"But if you do decide to have an amateur display at home, make sure you read the fireworks' instructions carefully and only use those that are marked to BS 7114."

"Never try to start a bonfire using petrol or another accelerant and build it away from anything which could catch fire such as a shed or hedge."

"And don't throw spent fireworks on to the bonfire as they may still have some unexpected explosive life left in them."

Though the AA receives relatively few household fire damage claims, there is a slight increase in claims for theft during November. In November 2013 18 per cent of home claims were for theft, compared to an average of 16 per cent for the whole year.

"If there's a local firework display on and your lights are off, an opportunistic burglar might suspect that's where you are so try to make your house look occupied if you can – perhaps leave a couple of lights on and don't forget to lock up both your windows and doors."

"The good news is that fire and theft are generally covered as standard on home insurance policies."

Overall, the number of fire claims reported to AA Insurance reduced by a huge 79 per cent between 2010 and 2013.

Prevent storm damage

Homeowners are being advised to take action now to prevent storm damage this winter.

Tim Downes, senior claims manager, Lloyds Bank Insurance, said: "Strong winds and heavy rain can wreak havoc on homes and gardens, but a few simple steps can go a long way to reduce the damage."

■ Clear the gutters and drain pipes of any leaves or debris that have built up in them to reduce the risk of blocks and overflows
■ Keep gates and outbuilding doors fastened securely and secure any other loose items

■ Check external light fittings are secure

■ Cut back low hanging branches that could cause damage in high winds or storms

■ Check the condition of the roof. Look for cracked or broken tiles, cracks in the chimney or problems with the pointing.

■ Keep a home emergency kit prepared in case of a winter emergency. This could include torches, spare bulbs and batteries, tinned food, warm clothing, blankets and a shovel.

News

Deal or no deal?

More measures are to be introduced to prevent consumers getting bad deals when buying used cars, the Government has announced. This follows an investigation by the Government-appointed Used Car Commission into problems reported by consumers about the second-hand car sector which is valued at £38bn with 7.1m sales a year.

Consumer Affairs minister Jo Swinson has called on the commission to implement proposals including:

- Closer cooperation between the police and trading standards to target organised criminals who steal vehicles for export, clone them or break them up for parts;
- The development of a minimum set of requirements for used car codes and trader approval schemes to ensure consumers are better protected.

STAR IN A CAR: Saira Khan

Taking female viewpoint

SAIRA Khan was the runner-up in the first series of the BBC's Apprentice. Now an ambassador for Ford cars, she reviews their small vehicle range from an eco, family and female perspective. She is currently filming the fourth series of The Martin Lewis Money Show which will air on ITV at 8pm every Friday from next month. For more on Saira visit her website www.sairakhan.co.uk or follow her on Twitter @IamSairaKhan

What was your first car?

My dad bought me a Mini Metro in 1989 so that I could get home from university in Brighton to my home town in Long Eaton. I think it cost my dad about £300 second-hand. It was red and I just remember it being very shaky when I went 70mph. I loved it because of the independence it gave me.

How many times did it take to pass your test?

I passed my test at the age of 17 in 1997 and it took me two attempts. I failed the first time because I clipped the edge of the car when I did my reverse parking. But two weeks later I did the test again and passed.

What is your dream car?

I think it would have to be the Ford Mustang – it's just classy, stylish and makes a great visual impact. I can't wait till it gets to the UK with the right-hand drive! I'm going to treat myself to one – it's on my bucket list of things to do!

How would you describe your driving style?

I would definitely say I'm a confident, happy driver. Driving is part of my thinking and chilling time and I drive a lot for various reasons. I get into the car five days a week at 6.20am every morning to go to the gym, then I take the kids to school, drive to a business meeting and then do the school at 3pm run to pick up my son and daughter. I could not live without my car.

Tell me one driving anecdote from your past?

I remember driving with my son from Oxford to Nottingham and I got to Junction 16 on the motorway and realised I had left his sleeping teddy Harry at home. He could never sleep without Harry – so I drove all the way back home, picked it up and got back on the road again! The things mums do for their kids eh? To be honest it was more about the fact that once I had the teddy, I knew I'd be able to get a good night's sleep!

What do you drive now?

I am currently driving a 1.6 diesel engine Ford B-Max in tectonic silver which I love. It is the perfect family car. I think Lord Sugar would be proud of my choice of car, because with the B-Max you get a lot of fantastic features for your buck.

Reduce drink-drive limit

A recent survey by the Institute of Advanced Motorists (IAM) has found more than two-thirds (68 per cent) of those who completed the survey would like the Scottish drink-drive limit introduced across England and Wales.

A total of 2,632 people took part in the survey throughout October 2014.

Under the new proposal, the Scottish government will lower the legal drink-drive limit to 50mg of alcohol in 100ml of blood before Christmas – to reduce the number of drink-related accidents and deaths on Scotland's roads.

Over 83 per cent of IAM's survey respondents confirmed that they drink alcohol, and over 47 per cent have agreed lowering the limit from 80mg to 50mg of alcohol in 100ml of blood will reduce the number of accidents taking place across UK roads.

IAM's director of policy and research, Neil Greig said: "England and Wales are now totally out of step with drink-drive limits across the rest of Europe. Existing research has shown that between 63 and 116 lives can be saved every year by a lower limit. Different limits are also a recipe for confusion and the IAM would urge the Westminster government to review its approach as a matter of urgency."

The poll further revealed that over 53 per cent would prefer more thorough police checks to target drink-drivers, while only five per cent would support an increase in alcohol prices to tackle the problem.

FUEL FOR THOUGHT

£500 OF FREE PETROL OR DIESEL IF YOU BUY DURING VAUXHALL WEEKEND OF GIVING

A forgotten £10 note in your pocket or a letter from the taxman saying he owes you money? We all like nice surprises, which is why local Vauxhall retailer, Now Vauxhall, is giving motorists a pleasant surprise this November.

On top of its other great offers the dealership, with sites in Kingston and Richmond, is giving away £500 of free fuel with new Vauxhall cars and vans bought during the Vauxhall Weekend of Giving, which takes place from Friday, November 7 to Monday, November 10.

During the weekend, customers can also get 20 per cent off all genuine and approved Vauxhall accessories, such as sat navs, iPhone/iPad cradles and cargo liners, when they buy a new car. These 'nice little surprises' are on top of Vauxhall's existing range of available offers.

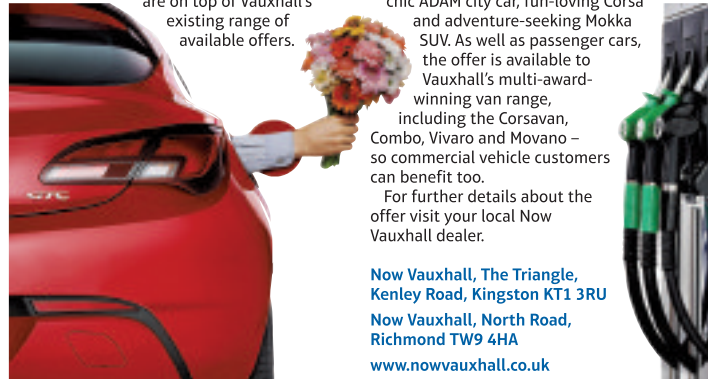

Jon Taylor, managing director at the retailer, said: "The Vauxhall Weekend of Giving will come as a welcome unexpected treat to motorists looking for a new vehicle this November."

"It gives drivers the opportunity to take advantage of a range of fantastic incentives, from helping to cut costs at the fuel pumps to discounts on accessories, so they can take to the road in a brand new Vauxhall for less. "We'd like to invite all those interested in a new vehicle to stop by our dealership during the event period to take advantage of the offers available and discover the Vauxhall that best suits their needs."

The £500 free fuel offer is available on a wide range of models, including the urban-chic ADAM city car, fun-loving Corsa and adventure-seeking Mokka SUV. As well as passenger cars, the offer is available to Vauxhall's multi-award-winning van range, including the Corsavan, Combo, Vivaro and Movano – so commercial vehicle customers can benefit too.

For further details about the offer visit your local Now Vauxhall dealer.

Surbiton's double triumph honoured

Surbiton's 2014 WHL Premier Division and Women's Cup double triumph, right, was honoured last week when club's women collected the senior team of the year award at the Elmbridge Sports Awards.

Head coach Brett Garrard collected the coach of the year gong.

Surbiton return to league action with the visit of Buckingham on Saturday before heading to Holcombe in the last 16 of the cup on Sunday.

Too little, too late: Michael Salako celebrates his late strike that could not quite land a point for Casuals

Salako is not quite enough

Michael Salako might have hit the mark for Corinthian Casuals on Saturday, but boss Matt Howard was left ruing the ones that got away, writes Stuart Amos.

Substitute Salako headed in late on, but it proved too little too late as Whitstable Town triumphed 2-1 in Ryman Division One South at King George's Field.

"I thought we deserved something out of the game. We had large spells of possession, but just couldn't convert our chances," said the manager.

"Box-to-box, I was very pleased with how we played. We seemed to find it fairly easy going forward, but the final link was missing.

"However, Michael Salako coming on gave us fresh energy and his goal was well taken. Perhaps a few more minutes and we would've equalised.

"Credit to Whitstable – they came into this match in a similar position to us and ground out a result much in the way we did against Hastings last week.

"Sometimes, that's what is needed when results aren't going your way."

FIGHT NIGHT: Ayinde ready for successful first defence of crown

Baker set for a Kane-ing

SPORTS EDITOR

Kingston boxer Anthony Ayinde has warned rival Kane Baker he will not know what has hit him when they square up later this month.

The 22-year-old, who only took up fighting two years ago, will defend his Queensbury Boxing League welterweight title at the season's finale event in West Sussex on November 22.

Ayinde, who fights out of Kingston's Cool Hands Boxing Gym, claimed the crown with a career best triumph over old rival Ashley Dansie back in September.

And he insisted Kent-based Baker has little chance of wrestling the belt from his grasp at the Copthorne Millennium Hotel.

"It was the best feeling of my life winning that belt against Ashley back in September, and there is absolutely no way I'm losing it to Kane," he said.

"It was a tough fight to win the belt and its going to be an even harder one to defend it,

Making waves: Anthony Ayinde has come a long way in a short amount of time in the Queensbury Boxing League and is out to build on his victory over Ashley Dansie last time out but after watching Baker in action in his last contest I'm really confident I'm just going to have far too much for him.

"Now that I've got the title its natural all the other welterweights want to take it off me, and Baker is going to be hungry just like I was before winning the belt.

"I'm preparing like a champion and I'll be ready to stand toe-to-toe with him and hit him with shots he's never been hit with before.

"Believe me, he's going down in this fight and I'll be surprised if he gets up."

In the running: Special Olympics Surrey founder Sue Frett

Times for an award

Special Olympics Surrey founder Sue Frett has no thoughts of slowing down, writes Stuart Amos.

The 75-year-old has been shortlisted for the community award at the 2014 Sunday Times and Sky Sports Sportswomen of the Year Awards on November 19.

Chessington's Frett set up the Surrey branch of Special Olympics GB in 2007 having started charity 'Reach Out' for youth and adult disabilities in 1993.

"I would like to see Special Olympics GB become as big as it is in America," she said.

"I would like to see all boroughs across the country recognising SOGB and what this recognition could do for disabled people would be outstanding."

Time is running out for failing Ks stars

A 3-1 defeat at Barkingside on Saturday ended Kingstonian's involvement in the FA Trophy at the first qualifying round stage, writes Taimour Lay.

It's the sixth time since 2006 that Ks have fallen at the opening hurdle of the competition – a sorry tale of missed opportunities and lost revenue.

Manager Tommy Williams appeared aghast at the display and warned there will be changes in personnel in the coming weeks, not least because of budget constraints.

"As a group we need to be stronger," said the Kingsmeadow chief.

"There are players out there who we keep saying are good footballers, but [some of them] need to man up. It could be the end of the road for some, unfortunately.

"It's important for the club that we get through in FA competitions because of the income. We'll be speaking next week [about the budget], but I'll certainly be making changes anyway."

On the day after Halloween, at a ground adjacent to Ilford cemetery, this was a ghoulish result.

Barkingside lie 20th in the Ryman One North, ground-share at an athletics stadium and attract crowds below 50.

After a listless hour of windy hoof-ball, Ks in fact took the lead.

Midfielder Luke Pigden, signed from Wealdstone last week, swung in a corner and Sam Page headed home inside the far post.

Then the collapse began.

Within a minute, Barkingside were level, Dion Polius capitalising on a mistake before beating Rob Tolfrey from 12 yards out.

Calvin Poku then gave the Essex team the lead after more woeful defending.

And the same striker finished the scoring three minutes from the end.

Despite Tolfrey making a brilliant save in the build-up, the ball ended up at Poku's feet and he calmly completed the upset.

"With the conditions and the pitch, it was about decision-making," reflected Williams, right.

"We knew it was going to be ugly, but I thought once we'd scored we'd see the game out.

"We then conceded 10 seconds after we scored and we went into our shells."

IN TOUCH: New Malden's KCS Old Boys kept in touch with London Division Two South West leaders London Cornish with a 25-19 win at Effingham & Leatherhead on Saturday. They are just seven points off the top of the table and host rock-bottom Farnham next weekend. Old Tiffinians hit the top of Division Three South West on points difference thanks to a 48-12 triumph over Ellingham & Ringwood. The head to second-placed Eastleigh next.

AWARDS: Surbiton's U12 girls were named junior team of the year at the 2014 Elmbridge Sports Awards last week, while the club was named the Mick Burgess sports club of the year. Sugden Road's men resume MHL Premier Division action at Can-nock on Sunday.

WORTHY WINNER: Kingston & Polytechnic Harrier Zac Wort won the opening Downs League U15 boys race of the winter on Sunday. Wort clocked 11 minutes 18 seconds to win, which was only 16 seconds quicker than U15 girls race winner and club-mate Mollie O'Sullivan (11:36).
